Description

Bosch AHM 38 Push Cylinder Mower

This lightweight, hand-powered mower is the ideal choice for anyone who has only a small area of grass to deal with: the lightness, easy manoeuvrability and simplicity make this mower especially ideal if you have limited strength or upper-body mobility; there are no cables to worry about tripping or mowing over; and there is no need to buy or store petrol.

The horizontally mounted cylinder of five curved blades made from hardened steel cuts against a stationary bottom blade to produce a scissor-like action, resulting in a clean cut rather than a ripping motion, and producing a much neater finish than many people would expect from the simple technology of the hand-powered mower. The cutting width of 38cm is generous for a small lawn, and the height of cut can also be adjusted easily without tools, to allow you to tailor the cut to the needs of your lawn or your personal preference. Three heights of cut from 15-50mm give maximum versatility, and the bottom blade can also be easily set thanks to the tool-less "click" locking system.

Weighing in at only 8.9kg, this mower is designed to be easy for anyone to use, whatever their strength, and also has an ergonomically designed handle to make mowing as comfortable an experience as possible. Even the wheels have been designed with special gear reduction to make them as smooth and free-running as possible, allowing you to use it easily under all conditions.
